

Viet Assembly Approves Thieu

REPORTER'S REFLECTIONS

—During the City Council meeting held Tuesday in Lincoln School, a commissioner charged the city administration has not pressed for a court answer to whether the city has a right to levy fire protection taxes on properties which are located within the city limits but which are also in the territory included in the rural fire protection district, and was told an Illinois Supreme Court ruling is pending which will settle the dispute.

What the commissioner, James G. Burke, referred to is an objection filed in Circuit Court by the rural district on Aug. 25, 1965 which sought to block the disconnection of the area in the district which also lies within the limits of the city of Dixon.

Subsequent investigation by a Telegraph reporter has disclosed the city answered the objection in a reply to the court on Sept. 13, 1965; that a hearing was held before Associate Circuit Judge John Dixon, on Sept. 17, 1965, during which County Clerk John Stouffer was questioned by George Nichols, attorney for the rural district, and was cross-examined by Edward A. Jones, city attorney; that the case was continued "without date," and that to this date no attempt has been made by the city to get the court to rule on the rural district's objection.

Jones told Burke Tuesday night the reason for this delay is a pending supreme court ruling.

When asked, by a reporter, what case he had been talking about, Jones replied that he did not know about any particular case, but had heard "somewhere" a case would be appealed to the supreme court.

A poll of city attorneys from municipalities known to be in various stages of litigation with rural fire protection districts produced none who had heard of any coming supreme court ruling concerning fire protection districts and cities.

In 1965, the Illinois General Assembly passed legislation which said territory which is part of a rural fire district but which also lies within the limits of a municipality which provides fire protection shall be disconnected from the rural district.

The legislation provided, however, that the district could file an objection with a circuit court claiming the loss of tax revenue would impair its ability to render fully adequate fire protection to the territory remaining in the district.

This is the objection the rural district filed on Aug. 25, 1965.

According to testimony during the Sept. 17, 1965 hearing, the rural department would lose $9,309 annually and this would represent 17.76 per cent of the district's tax revenue.

At that time it was stated the city would gain $7,447 in additional taxes from the area disconnected from the rural district.

The rural would lose more than the city would gain because the rural fire protection tax rate is higher than the city's.

The rural department's objection has held up city levies for fire protection to any properties in the disputed area, whereas, the rural district has continued to levy and collect taxes on properties in this territory.

Why the city has not pressed for a court ruling is difficult to answer.

Even if the court ruled against the city, officials of the municipality would have then acted in behalf of the best interests of the city.

As it now stands, the city has lost at least $15,000 in taxes solely on the basis of the rural district's objection.

Train Slams Bus, Four Dead

WATERLOO, Neb. (UPI)—A 97-car freight train today slammed into a school bus only a quarter of a mile and a few minutes from school, killing four and injuring nine children.

Officials of the Waterloo Consolidated High School and Grade School, which has a total enrollment of 245, said the bus carried 13 children. Had it been on the end of its run there would have been as many as 50 children aboard, the officials said.

The accident occurred at about 8:10 a.m., on a gravel road just west of Waterloo, which is about 20 miles west of Omaha.

The bus driver, Thomas M.

McMahon, said he stopped at the crossing but did not see the train approaching. He said the sun obscured his vision.

McMahon escaped injury but was in a state of shock.

The train struck the bus near the right rear wheel. Three or four seat sections were ripped out. Some of the seats were thrown as far as 50 feet.

A Nebraska highway patrolman, reporting from the scene, said bodies were scattered all over the ground.

One of the first on the scene was a Roman Catholic priest. He was administering last rites to the victims when newsmen arrived.

Ambulances and rescue vehicles, some from communities 20 miles away, sped to the scene. Most of the injured were taken to Omaha for admittance to Children's Memorial Hospital.

A spokesman at the hospital said seven of the nine admitted were not seriously hurt and would be released before nightfall.

Classes at the school were dismissed for the remainder of the day.

Bulletin

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — Tornadoes snaked through the flood, rain and hurricane-wracked Lower Rio Grande Valley's northern fringe today as small-craft warnings flew up from another major hurricane that blossomed in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Weather Bureau announced today the sudden appearance of Hurricane Fern. Small-craft warnings extended as far north as Brownsville Port Isabel on the Texas lower coast, the point of entry of Hurricane Beulah.

Two tornadoes were reported at Raymondville, Tex., Monday. There were no reports of damage.

At 1 p.m. Hurricane Fern was centered some 290 miles east of Tampico, Mexico.

Word of the new hurricane came as thousands of Texans went to work in earnest in repairing homes and businesses ravaged by Hurricane Beulah. Beulah's floodwaters were finally back in their banks and surging into the Gulf of Mexico.

Resolution Is Passed

DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP) — A resolution to boycott a Milwaukee brewery was adopted Sunday by the North Central region leaders of the Congress of Racial Equality.

Some 50 leaders from a 13-state region ended their two-day conference by approving the resolution against the Schlitz Brewing Co.

Raymond Carter Jr., Davenport area CORE leader, said, "The Schlitz family has the influence over the power structure in Milwaukee. This is why we decided on the boycott."

Carter said the resolution was taken in support of the open housing fight in Milwaukee, and it is effective immediately.

He said the group also decided to call for what he termed "an open rally in the Davenport-Quad Cities area" within the next three or four weeks. He added that he knew of at least two speakers who will attend, but he didn't identify them.

Rock Falls Woman Is Injured

ROCK FALLS — A 30-year-old Rock Falls woman remains in poor condition today at Community General Hospital, Sterling, where she has not yet regained consciousness after being hit in the head with a baseball bat Saturday night.

The woman, Mary M. Reyes, 1106 W. 20th St., police said, was struck in the side of the head with the bat by her husband, Gregory Reyes, 39, during a family argument.

Reyes is being held in White-side County Jail, Morrison, in lieu of bond on a charge of aggravated assault. State's Atty. L. E. Ellison said today there is a possibility other charges are being lodged against Reyes depending on changes in Mrs. Reyes' condition at the hospital.

Economic Plan Is Under Fire

SCARBOROUGH, England (AP) — Labor party Chairman John Boyd unleashed an attack today on Prime Minister Harold Wilson's economic policies, charging that the government used boxing gloves when dealing with workers and kid gloves with businessmen.

Boyd, one of the leaders of the big Amalgamated Engineering Union, made his charge in a speech opening the Labor party's annual convention.

Boyd expressed the bafflement of the 6,000 delegates over the government's policy of deflation which has sent unemployment soaring to a 27-year peak.

He defended the government's actions in health, housing, education and social security but said it wasn't enough. Wilson had been counting on him to help defend against some criticism within the party.

Workers, Boyd said, were seeing their earnings whittled away by even higher prices and he lashed out at profits of some industrialists.

Wilson was prepared to hit back hard at critics including three former Cabinet ministers—Defense Secretary Emanuel Shinwell, President of the Board of Trade Douglas Jay, and Minister of Technology Frank Cousins.

He already had arranged: — For Boyd to rap those "with petty minds who were ei-

First Negro Justice Takes Oath Today

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Thurgood Marshall took his seat as the first Negro member of the U.S. Supreme Court today with President Johnson, who appointed him, on hand to see him take his oath of office.

Marshall, the great grandson of a slave, swore to "do equal right to the poor and to the rich" as he took the oath with his hand on a Bible.

Supreme Court Clerk John W. Davis administered the oath and Court Marshal T. Perry Lippitt then ushered the new justice to his chair at the end of the high mahogany bench on Chief Justice Earl Warren's far left.

Justice Byron R. White, who will sit next to him, and Justice William J. Brennan Jr., next in line, both shook hands with Marshall.

The swearing-in of the former solicitor general with the President and an overflow audience in the court chamber featured the opening session of a new term—the 178th in U.S. history.

The first day of a term is confined to ritualistic ceremony with no decisions announced. Marshall, who is to occupy the chambers of retired Justice

Tom C. Clark whom he succeeds, took the constitutional oath of office Sept. 1 in a private ceremony and has been hard at work since then.

Probably none of the 95 justices who have preceded Marshall on the Supreme Court bench had more experience as an advocate before it. Prior to his judicial service in New York he was a renowned civil rights lawyer and won 29 Supreme Court decisions, including the landmark school desegregation ruling of 1954. As solicitor general he argued many cases for the government on a variety of subjects.

Marshall's place as the government's chief advocate will be taken by Erwin N. Griswold, 63, a distinguished legal scholar who has been dean of the Harvard Law School since 1946. President Johnson announced Griswold's nomination Saturday; he still must be approved by the Senate.

As soon as today's formalities were over, the court was going into private conference on the small mountain of appeals that have come in during its summer recess.

Besides the ever-present problems in race relations, obscenity, state and local legislature reapportionment, and crime, the court has been asked to review the judgment of a Boston federal court that the law punishing a young man for burning his draft card is unconstitutional.

MONROE CENTER — A Byron man escaped injury Sunday in an accident involving two motorcycles and an auto, which claimed the life of a Monroe Center man, and resulted in the serious injury of three other persons.

Dead is Thomas Rainwater, 20, a passenger on a motorcycle driven by Michael Luby, 20, also of Monroe Center, who remains in serious condition in Rockford Memorial Hospital. Also in serious condition in the hospital is Stephen Pettenger, 21, driver of the other motorcycle, and a passenger on the vehicle, Beverly Pettenger, 21, both of Monroe Center.

An auto driven by Douglas Reed, 24, Byron, was westbound on Ill. 72, in Monroe Center, turned left into a service station into the path of the two eastbound motorcycles.

According to police reports Reed escaped injury and arrests are pending. Estimated damage to the auto was $800 and about $500 damage to both motorcycles.

Thomas W. Rainwater was born Sept. 19, 1947, in Belvidere, the son of Ross and Eva Baxter Rainwater. He married Dorothy Wright, Oct. 2, 1965, in Rockford. Mr. Rainwater was a 1965 graduate of Stillman Valley High School and was employed by Rockford Screw Products, Rockford.

Survivors include his widow; a daughter, Kimberly Marie, at home; his parents; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Rainwater, Monroe Center; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Rupert Baxter; two brothers, Alan and James, both of Monroe Center; three sisters, Linda, Laurie and Bonnie Jo, all of Monroe Center.

Services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the Monroe Center Union Church with the Rev. Paul Kangas officiating. Burial will be in Monroe Center Cemetery.

Friends may call Tuesday evening in the Unger Funeral Home, Rochelle.

Action Averts Crisis

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese provisional National Assembly voted 58 to 43 today to reject charges of election irregularities and seat Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu as president. The speaker of the house immediately resigned in protest.

The decision followed three days of debate during which Buddhist-inspired anti-Thieu students clashed with police outside the assembly building. Police broke up one such protest today with clubs and tear gas, bloodying the heads of dozens of students.

A special elections watchdog committee had told the assembly the Sept. 3 balloting results should be thrown out because of unfair campaign practices and "irregularities" in more than half the nation's 8,808 polling places.

With some members absent from the 117-member assembly, the vote was taken and results of the secret balloting posted on a green bulletin board.

The assembly chairman, Phan Khac Suu, a leader in the anti-Thieu opposition and one of his unsuccessful opponents in the elections, watched as the results were posted. Deputies waited for him to make the official announcement, but instead he stepped forward and said:

"I resign as speaker. I will not accept the responsibility of announcing this before history."

Despite the simmering opposition, the vote removed a damaging challenge to the credibility of South Vietnam's first steps toward democracy and a serious embarrassment to the Americans who had declared the elections were fair.

It meant Thieu could be inaugurated as president and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky as vice president probably during the last week in October.

Even before the vote a spokesman for Thieu's followers claimed victory, declaring that Thieu and Ky had enough votes

UAW Sure They Will Win Strike

By BILL SIMMONS
DETROIT (AP) — Nearly 160,000 United Auto Workers members entered the 26th day of their strike against Ford Motor Co. today with union leaders' assurances they will win their demands.

More than 8,000 of them reacted with cheers and applause at a rally Sunday when UAW President Walter P. Reuther told them, "We will never surrender."

The show of determination, according to some industry sources, may break the deadlock in auto industry labor contract negotiations and open the way toward settlement.

This, at least, had been the prognosis of some industry executives who viewed the rally as a major indicator of the strikers' staying power.

The 60-year-old Reuther returns to the bargaining table at Ford today "to see if we can get things off dead center."

The strike began Sept. 7 after nine weeks of talks had resulted in no agreement on any phase of the contract. Not one paragraph has been written yet.

Reuther repeatedly attacked the industry in general and Ford in particular, accusing them of forcing the union to strike for what he called justice.

He frequently criticized Henry Ford II, board chairman and grandson of the founder of the nation's No. 2 automaker, for declining an invitation to attend the rally to explain why he called the UAW demands "unconscionable."

Ford earned more than $3.9 million in salary, bonuses and

Concentrated Bombing Almost Silences Reds

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. B-52 strategic bombers, in what was officially described as the heaviest concentration of bombing in the history of warfare, have all but obliterated Communist artillery positions in and just above the Demilitarized Zone, U.S. military spokesmen said today.

The big eight-engined bombers struck again Sunday night and twice more today. There were heavier bombings in World War II but Gen. William C. Westmoreland said never before had such heavy raids been concentrated against such a small piece of real estate.

The Communists fired only one artillery round Sunday but lobbed over a number of shells with propaganda leaflets aimed at U.S. Marines defending the Con Thien area just below the DMZ. One of the leaflets taking its theme from U.S. peacekeepers asked: "Hey, hey, LBJ . . . How many kids have you killed today?"

Fire At Ship

Communist guerrillas opened fire today on a Japanese merchant ship 19 miles from Saigon in the main shipping channel of the Long Tau river. Only minor damage was inflicted on the ship, the Okuni Maru, and U.S. Navy river patrol boats escorted her to Saigon without further incident.

The report of the new Communist tactic came as a U.S. Marine spokesman in Da Nang reported that only one explosive round hit Leatherneck outposts along the buffer zone all day Sunday. But that one wounded two Marines.

Halt Invasion

For the past month, however, Communist rocket, mortar and artillery fire have averaged from 500 to 1,000 shells per day on the battered Con Thien outpost straddling a key infiltration trail from the DMZ. The Communists would like to free the route for the 35,000 troops reportedly massed in the area for an invasion thrust.

Over North Vietnam, meanwhile, American warplanes for the third straight day streaked back through heavy anti-aircraft fire to bomb MIG fighter bases in the Hanoi area. U.S. spokesmen said there appeared to be two reasons for the dramatic drop in shelling near the DMZ—other than the propaganda leaflet shells.

One, he said, was probably a shortage of ammunition resulting from American bombing raids on highways, bridges, rail lines and convoys in North Vietnam—and the intense bombing and artillery barrages against the guns in and above the Demilitarized Zone in the past few weeks.

In a report on the effectiveness of raids by the Strategic Air Command B-52 Stratofortresses, a U.S. communique said their bombs touched off 66 secondary explosions and nine raging fires on the ground last week.

High American Toll

The report said that Communist shelling had killed 300 Marines and wounded more than 3,000 since mid-July.

The raids continued. Sunday night and early today, B-52's flew three more raids against the Communist guns positions in the DMZ.

In the Central Highlands, meanwhile, a bitter jungle battle erupted Sunday 23 miles southeast of Pleiku near the Cambodian border.

It started when an aerial observer in a light plane noticed

Television Missed The Boat After Game

By RICK DUBROW United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Watching the finale of baseball's American League race Sunday, one could appreciate television's technical ability—yet its increasing separation from the home audience in truly human terms.

I am not talking only about NBC-TV, which carried the climactic competition, but the other two networks as well, ABC-TV and CBS-TV. Just because one network has a contractual right to a public event doesn't mean its competitors are automatically absolved from recognizing the entire scene as a video experience worthy of transmission in its fuller aspects. For what all three commercial networks had right before their eyes Sunday was a genuine "happening," and they didn't even know it.

Contrary to the machinations of cold-blooded promoters, "happenings" are not merely freestyle pop-op-mod scenes with lots of dancing and crazy lights and empty-eyed people in capris and long hair. "Happenings" are not the exclusive property of people who plan them and make them pseudo-events.

Baseball Happening

They are, in the larger sense, simply very exciting things that engage the emotions of people—in any generation, anywhere. And there is no reason a baseball game, for instance—and its effect on the persons who have watched it, involved themselves in it, and have agonized over a team for months—should not be considered a "happening" worthy of special reporting.

There is a whole new dimension of television coverage waiting to be opened, and it is ignored the contemporary scene will pass the medium by.

It is an old-hat fact that the modern age has increasingly isolated human beings from the direct involvement in shared experiences that used to be more accessible. There has been a reaction so that "involvement" now is quite a chic thing to advocate. Television, for instance, advocates it in many of its pseudo-dramas, but it hardly ever practices it.

If there is a simplistic explanation for commercialized "happenings," it certainly relates to a terrific desire for direct experience.

Yet right in the midst of this revolution for human involvement sits television, putting on taped shows about experiences, filmed shows about experiences, dated programs about things that happened months ago or weeks ago—analyzing to exhaustion, when what the world is hollering for, and longing for, is something that touches people directly, personally, makes them feel.

Miss Finale

Consider what happened after the Boston Red Sox won the pennant Sunday in one of the most thrilling sports finales in history. NBC-TV had covered the game in the usual way, then switched to a weekly pro football contest. Meanwhile, it offered oral reports on how the Detroit baseball team was losing its final game, thereby assuring Boston's victory. Then it was all over. But was it really? Perhaps the hits, runs and errors were all over. But was the story over?

I maintain it was not. For if the sports event involving two squads was over, the human experience in Boston on this great Sunday for that city was just beginning. The old Massachusetts city was a "happening" Sunday—it had been a "happening" all through the agony with the Red Sox and their dramatic comeback. There was a wonderful story to be put on national television Sunday—live from Boston, a story that would have involved roving cameras and reporters seeking out what a team had done to a sophisticated city.

I would have liked to share that great day in Boston, live on television and perhaps for several hours. But video went back to tape and film and ignored the direct, personal and human happening which had captured the imagination of millions. I hope nobody is planning a program about it at a later date.

The Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE.

CASE D-567: Laura L., aged 29, is terrified.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "about one month ago I was reading a book late at night as I lay in bed.

"Suddenly, a strange feeling came over me. I felt that I was losing my mind!

"And other weird thoughts kept flitting across my consciousness that I simply could not erase.

"I didn't close my eyes at all the rest of the night.

"In fact, I wanted to get up and run away. I even had the idea of killing my two precious children.

"For voices kept whispering in my ear: 'You are going crazy.'

"Next morning I went to a very nice doctor who said it was my nerves.

"Since then I have been living on tranquilizers and sleeping pills.

"But I don't want to be a drug addict forever, so what can I do to avoid going crazy?"

Be glad if you worry about losing your mind!

For your mind isn't something that can be lost by fearing insanity!

Besides, "worry" is superb insurance that you are sane and will remain that way!

The people who go crazy don't worry about that dire result!

And they don't even know they are abnormal.

They are similar to the Irishman in the army who said:

"Everybody is out of step but me!"

For they think they are all right but the world is wrong.

Laura is a neurotic (Worry Wart).

And we have a general rule in psychiatry that if you are a neurotic you are not likely to become a psychotic (insane).

So I am not joking or just trying to soothe you readers when I say it is normal and also good insurance against insanity when you worry lest you may lose your mind.

Millions of intelligent Americans have furtively thought they might go crazy. Or even have toyed with the idea of murder.

Indeed, that is one reason why murder mysteries are so popular!

But when young wives face the dreaded age of 30 and lie abed without erotic satisfaction from their husbands, they often find that vague, flirtatious notions may flit across their minds.

For 29 is one of the most dangerous ages in women!

We call it the '29 Panic'!

For that is when millions of women wonder if life may not have almost passed them by.

"Maybe I haven't tasted all the thrills of life," they figure, "so perhaps I should try a last fling before I reach the grandmotherly age of 30."

Then their conscience quickly reasserts itself.

"What an awful thing I have considered," they realize.

"God must surely punish me for these disloyal (or immoral) thoughts," is usually their next reaction.

And insanity, heart attack or stroke of lightning are the usual ailments attributed to a vengeful God.

Such patients seldom fear tuberculosis or other germ diseases!

No, they expect a dramatic, sudden punishment from Heaven.

More tomorrow! Meanwhile, send for the booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a stamped, return envelope, plus 20c.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Moon Much Like Earth

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In an achievement ranked by scientists as one of man's greatest, the Surveyor 5 spacecraft has analyzed the moon's surface and found it contains materials much like those on earth.

One is basalt, an ordinary sort of rock so common on earth it is found everywhere from the Palisades of the Hudson to the Deccan Plains of India.

Others are silicon and oxygen, by far the most common elements on earth and apparently on the moon too.

This may be disappointing to laymen who have been teased in years past by pseudo-scientific speculations that the moon might be covered with diamonds and perhaps rare metals like gold or platinum.

But to serious scientists it is "gratifying news" the discovery of which, one of them said Friday, "ranks as one of the greatest scientific achievements in the entire history of man."

Surveyor 5's findings about the chemical composition of the lunar surface were reported in a briefing for newsmen at the headquarters of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

This appears to dispel all doubt whether the moon was once molten and whether it still is inwardly hot and subject to volcanic turmoil. According to Surveyor 5 it certainly was and surely is.

Of the three Surveyor spacecraft which have made soft landings on the moon and done their photographic and other duties there, Surveyor 5 has been by far the most successful.

America's "Good Word" a Mockery

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

President Johnson stated again in his speech to the Latin-American foreign ministers at the recent meeting of the Organization of American States that "America's word must always be good."

This was an unfortunate, if not shocking, occasion to repeat that requirement considering how good our word was regarding Cuba, the island we always swore to defend. But Mr. Johnson was furthermore connecting the requirement, as he does repeatedly, with our promise to defend South Vietnam.

In that case no such promise was ever made.

Even the Southeast Asian Defense Treaty that comes closest to the subject is merely permissive and the only direct promise ever given was given by Mr. Johnson himself.

Yet his own record in this respect is one reason for the tragic division in our country about the rightness of our Vietnam policy and the reliability of the President himself as a promiser.

It proved impossible to follow what Presidential candidate Barry Goldwater said from day to day while he was schussing down the slope. But the parallel between what he urged, what candidate John ignored, what Mr. Goldwater said, what Mr. Johnson denied, and what Mr. Johnson is doing is positively devastating.

Reviewing the Vietnam facts, the President unabashedly told the OAS ministers: "The United States has a long history in Vietnam." The French had a long history there; we didn't. The place where we had a long history was Cuba, a confusion of fact that could hardly be lost on Mr. Johnson's Latin-American listeners.

In 1823 the French Ambassador to London, Prince Jules de Polignac, proposed to Paris a detailed carving up of Latin America among the European powers as several areas gained independence from Spain. The United States issued its counterweight warning: the Monroe Doctrine.

President Kennedy's fiasco at the Bay of Pigs shattered our ancient Monroe Doctrine forever.

On Oct. 10, 1897, heroic liberators sparked the uprising against the colonial government of Spain in Cuba that finally lit the flame for the island's independence.

During this Cuban uprising the U.S.S. Maine stood in Havana harbor to protect American citizens. On Feb. 15, 1898, she was blown up with a heavy loss of American lives.

Pretext or not, and the pretext claim involving the Maine was never proven, the American nation was deeply sympathetic with the Cuban refugees who had fled here and the revolutionists fighting the cruel Spanish rule. We immediately declared war.

Of all her colonies, including the Philippines, that Spain lost during the centuries Cuba was the last one.

From that day forward every President of the United States, including President Kennedy while Mr. Johnson was his Vice-President, and especially President Kennedy, has sworn to defend Cuba.

Yet after approximately 60 years of independence Cuba is again a colony — this time a colony of Soviet imperialism, a Red satellite fringed with fire 90 miles from our shores.

The Soviet would rather have Cuba than Alaska — and why not?

The President said that "we must stand firm" and that the Vietnam war "is worth the price," explaining why we have 500,000 Americans fighting a land war in Southeast Asia.

He often misquotes President Eisenhower about Vietnam. Why does he never quote himself, and correctly? Mr. Johnson simply chooses who he wishes to involve.

On Oct. 25, 1964, he stated for the umpteenth time: "We don't want our American boys to do the fighting for Asian boys . . . and get tied down in a land war in Asia." Are millions to forget that? Moreover disbelief is a cumulative process.

I, for one, am convinced that President Johnson honestly wonders why his reputation for truth-telling is so low. Politics creates vapor. Certainly, he is honestly concerned about his famous "credibility gap" and insists that he does not deserve to be doubted. And when he repeatedly states that "America's word must always be good" he states an absolutely indispensable requirement.

But that's the rub. Our nation cannot be stronger than its beliefs. And it's beliefs cannot be manufactured to suit a moment, and administration, a policy or a person.

As Macbeth found out, you can kill Banquo but you cannot get rid of his ghost. Tragically, President Johnson is stuck with his own performance when he speaks to memory-minded millions.

TAYLOR

The Mature Parent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Until a year ago my husband and our 14-year-old boy were the best of friends. But this first year in high school has made a great change in Dave. He seems to want to find fault with his father. My husband recently misread a road sign that delayed us in getting to the new home of some friends. Dave was so snippy over this mistake I had to tell him to be still. This criticism is so new, so hurtful to my husband that he doesn't know how to treat it . . .

ANSWER: He will, though, the very moment he recognizes it as just a new form of Dave's same, old, unchanged affection for him.

The boy has now got to elaborate on any mistake his dad makes because he's getting so scared of making mistakes himself. For at this age, you see, the young begin to sense that time is moving them away from the paradise of childhood dependence on us. Their voices grow deeper, strange in their own ears. And other, more dramatic changes are taking place in their bodies which hint deliciously and terrifyingly at new kinds of experience.

So, if they love us, any mistake we make is deepest comfort to them. They'll fuss at us every time we make one until we feel like kicking them in the teeth. And this is very stupid of us. Because what their fussy criticism is really saying to us is: "Oh, how glad I am that you, my dear dad, can make mistakes! If you who are so reliable can make one, then I can, too, can't I? If you can pick the wrong road to where you want to go, then I can indulge poor judgment too occasionally, can't I?"

Thus, the response to such fault-finding is, "Are you scared of making mistakes, Dave? Don't be. I've just made one but you see how I'm now correcting it."

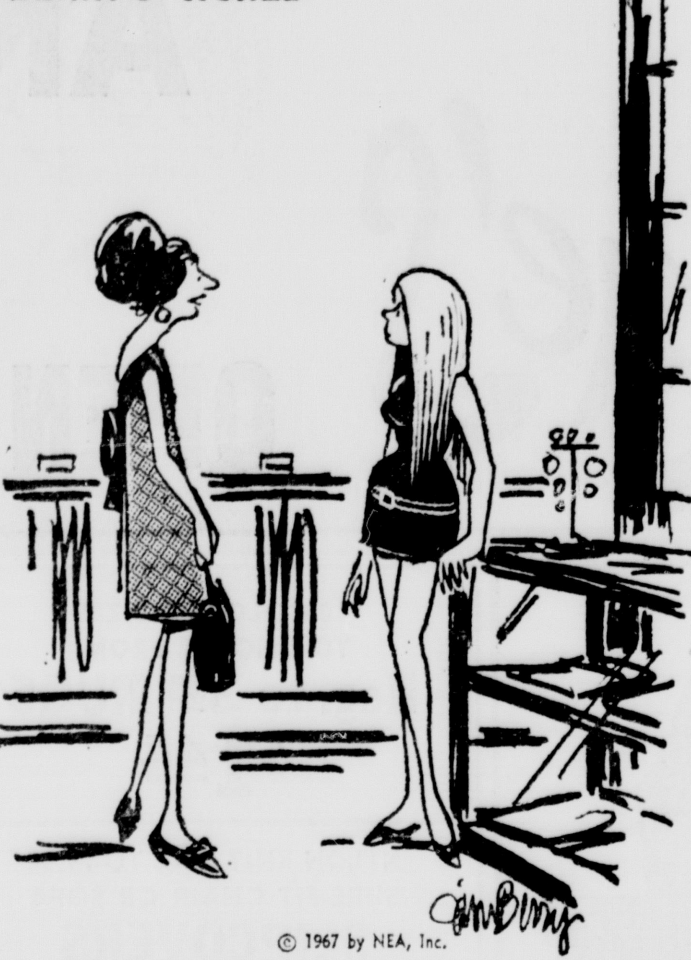

As usual the problem is our adamant refusal to know how dear, how precious we are to the children.

That's why the experts are so silly to keep insisting that we need psychological "insights" into the meanings of children's behavior. If we appreciate our dearness to them, we don't need them. Fussed at by Dave, we base our entire response to his criticism on the fact of his affection for us.

"Could you tell me what the 'mini-cutoff age' is?"

Dear Ann:

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has a rule that if the TV is on no other light should be burning in the house. Paul's favorite expression is, "Don't waste the juice, Marie."

I don't leave lights burning all over the place, but I do like to have a light on when I am sitting in a room. Paul even hates to turn on the porch lights when we are expecting guests. Last week when my mother was leaving our place he turned off the porch light before she got to the bottom of the stairs and she nearly fell.

Paul makes $160 a week and we are not hard up for money. He thinks nothing of spending $15 a week for beer but if I want to sew or read at night he gets mad because it is cheaper to do it in the daytime. Any comment? — BLACKED OUT

Dear Out: This is not an unusual peculiarity. The woman at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington has the same problem—and her husband makes $100,000 a year. The next time Paul complains, hand him two cents. That's what it costs to burn a 100-watt bulb for seven hours.

Dear Ann: Several weeks ago you printed a letter from "Flat Florence" who was miserable because she couldn't even fill out a 32 bra. I'll bet she and all the other Flat Florences are in seventh heaven now that these crazy Twiggy-type styles have hit the scene. The girl with two backs and no front is really "in."

My problem is just the opposite. Yesterday when I went to buy a dress, I heard a saleswoman say, "Godd grief, here comes good old D-Cup!" You have no idea how this hurt.

The girls with too little are much better off than the ones with too much. A padded bra can solve their problem, but there is no solution for us. My shoulders ache from the wide, tight straps I must wear to support the super-structure. Sweaters and knits are out. Tent-type dresses which are so smart on slim girls make me look like an elephant.

So please tell Flat Florence and her underdressed sisters that they are in luck at last. Shed a tear now for — THE BOSOMY BELLES

Dear Sister: Turn off the waterworks, Beller, you're wasting the natural resources. I took a poll in this office and 12 out of 14 girls said they'd rather have your problem than Florence's.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from "Disenchanted" was a good one. I am also a widow and have run into the same situation she described. "Disenchanted" failed to mention, however, one of the primary reasons respectable widows can't get a man. Listen to this:

Last year I was asked out by three of the town's most eligible bachelors. One was an attorney, another was a professor and the third an eye specialist. I soon discovered that I was being used as a decoy to confuse the public. Each of these men had a sizzling relationship going with a so-called married gal. As one Lothario put it, "Why buy a cow when milk is so cheap?" — ONLY A COVER

Dear Only: Why do you consider these men eligible? They are not interested in marriage. Dating such characters would be a waste of your time.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

J. Fred Hofmann, Dixon commissioner of public health and safety, Tuesday night told members of the city council he had ordered members of the police and fire departments to take Asian flu shots at city expense.

New Hampshire Is Starting Gate for Presidential Handicap

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI)—Autumn teased the maples, birches and elms into an orgy of wine-red, gold and flaming orange. The firs and pines towered stubbornly green.

This pause before winter is a time for fairs in New Hampshire. But anytime was fair for politics since New Hampshire is the starting gate on the tough track to the White House.

You get the impression in chatting with the partisans that candidates are as plentiful as the covered wooden bridges that grace the countryside. And you don't have to cross any bridges to unearth tap-root organizations for Republicans Richard M. Nixon, Ronald Reagan and George Romney and Democrat Robert F. Kennedy.

Nelson Rockefeller's name floats to the surface in the parlor game of politics but his disciples seem to be in the wings. There are loud whispers, too, that Illinois Sen. Charles H. Percy and Massachusetts Gov. John A. Volpe may dip into the Republican stream.

Entry Possible

President Johnson's entry into the first presidential primary of 1968 is a possibility despite White House disavowal. And maverick Democrat, former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, has said he may be a candidate.

The polls put Nixon ahead but public sentiment is far from firm in this politically paradoxical state whose big claim to political fame—the earlybird presidential primary—was born of Yankee shrewdness and practicality.

For nearly four decades, New Hampshire elected national convention delegates by popular vote on the third Tuesday in May. The legislature advanced the primary to the second Tuesday in March to coincide with town meeting day, a day heretofore devoted to the election of town officers from selectman to surveyor.

There were several reasons for the change. Not the least was the publicity the state would receive for beating the rest of the nation to the ballot box. Also, the dual purpose voting would attract a larger turnout.

Steal Opening Act

It was in 1952 that New Hampshire became the leadoff state for the first time. It has been stealing the opening acts of the big political show ever since.

With the 1968 primary less than six months away, there is talk of politics and Vietnam and living costs, but New Hampshire is taking its role calmly. "It's too early," said onetime Olympic skier Penny Pitou whose big concern was widening the trails in the Gilford ski area she operates with her husband, Austrian ski instructor Egon Zimmermann.

At the 92nd annual fair at Rochester, Robert Gardner, 39, of Dover, strolled through an exhibit of paintings, an aesthetic contrast to a sideshow blonde who stroked a tired boa constrictor in a wooden pit of snakes. Gardner, an engineer and amateur artist, had definite opinions about the paintings, but he said the primary was still too far out of focus to form an opinion about it.

Complicated Ballot

If most voters are undecided, as apparently they are, it is the task of men like David Sterling of Hillsborough, John L. MacDonald of Manchester, William Johnson of Hanover and Eugene S. Daniell Jr. of Franklin to mold public sentiment.

Sterling, a lawyer, is state campaign manager for Nixon. MacDonald, owner of an advertising specialty firm, is trying to drum up grass-roots support for Reagan. Johnson is directing the Romney forces in New Hampshire. Daniell is sparking a campaign for Kennedy.

All aim for support in the polling booths but the means to the end may vary by virtue of New Hampshire's somewhat complicated ballot. One part is the preferential poll in which the voter simply marks an "X" beside the name of the candidate he wants to win. Another part is comprised of slates of convention delegates pledged or favorable to a candidate. Then, there is provision for the voter to write in the name of his choice.

It requires a candidate's consent to have his name entered in the popularity poll or to have a slate of delegates pledged to him. No consent is needed for a slate of favorable delegates or for a write-in campaign.

No Approval Needed

Thus Reagan and Kennedy, for example, can be entered in the primary with or without their approval.

The primary has been criticized as an overrated display of expensive showmanship but New Hampshire defends it with a vigor begetting its most famous native son, orator-statesman Daniel Webster, whose statue fronts the golden-domed State House.

Things To Come

Democratic Gov. John W. King says frankly that New Hampshire relishes its day of glory. He says that, despite all the polls, the primary "is the first authentic sampling of voter opinion about which there can be no doubt at all."

New Hampshire's preferences may not always prevail in the November election, King said, "but frequently they give an indication of things to come."

Reuben Moore, 73, who lives in retirement in Bradford, has been an observer of New Hampshire politics since the days of Theodore Roosevelt. It was Moore who, as a Republican state representative, introduced the legislation setting up the primary in its present form.

Dislikes Stipulation

Moore says that in retrospect he doesn't like the stipulation that a person can find himself a contender without his consent. Otherwise he thinks the primary law he fathered is working well.

"The results reach far beyond the borders of the state," he said. And, he chuckled, "it's been a great success in advertising the state."

Richard Upton, former New Hampshire house speaker who worked closely with Moore in getting the primary law adopted, wished aloud that it didn't attract so many candidates "because the ultimate winner does not represent a clear margin."

Thus far, Nixon is the front runner, friend and political foe alike seem to agree. Then, depending on whom you talk to, you are left with the impression that Reagan is coming on strong just ahead or just behind Romney.

A prominent Democrat, Manchester Mayor Roland S.

Vallee, believes a Nixon-Reagan ticket would be the toughest for the Democrats to beat.

Vallee, in the throes of his own primary for a third two-year term as mayor, mused that New Hampshire voters are "quite independent" regardless of party inclinations.

The New Hampshire primary is significant in American politics though the significance varies in interpretation.

The first earlybird primary in 1952 spawned the political career of Dwight D. Eisenhower. He topped the Republican popularity poll that year and again in 1956 and both times the impetus helped carry him on to the White House.

In 1960, Nixon headed the GOP preferential poll with 65,204 votes. John F. Kennedy led the Democratic poll with 43,372 votes. Kennedy defeated Nixon in a close race in the general election.

In 1964, Lyndon B. Johnson won the Democratic poll with 29,317 votes. Henry Cabot Lodge, then still in South Vietnam as U.S. ambassador, beat Barry Goldwater in the Republican "beauty contest", 33,007 to 20,692. But Goldwater won the presidential nomination, only to be defeated by Johnson in the election. Rockefeller polled 19,504 votes and Nixon 15,587 in the primary that year.

The quietly independent-mindedness of its people keeps the politicians off-balance. Though predominantly Republican, it is no Democratic wasteland.

Rugged Individualism

The rugged individualism of the voters is reflected not only in the presidential primaries but also in the election of state officials. Though Republicans outnumber Democrats 180,000 to 100,000, the governor and one U.S. senator are Democrats. The other senator and the state's two congressmen are Republicans.

And not to be ignored is New Hampshire's 424-member legislature, the third largest legislative body in the English-speaking world, exceeded in size only by the U.S. Congress and the British Parliament.

The political eyes of a nation are peering through the window into New Hampshire but the stares from neighboring Vermont may be a bit disconcerting. The Vermont Senate has approved legislation that would make Vermont the first state to hold a presidential primary.

The Vermont bill providing for the primary a few days ahead of New Hampshire's is now pigeonholed in a house committee. Vermont Gov. Philip H. Hoff opposes the bill, describing it as "a publicity stunt to circumvent the New Hampshire primary." New Hampshire voters would agree.

Messer-Bechtold Nuptial Vows Are Spoken in Mount Morris

MOUNT MORRIS — The Rev. Howard Beltz officiated at the wedding of Miss Linda Messer, daughter of Mrs. Kenneth Messer Sr., Mount Morris, and Clarence Bechtold, son of Nellis Bechtold, Oregon, held at 4 p.m. Sept. 17 in Evangelical Free Church.

"Because," "The Lord's Prayer" and "Wedding Prayer" were vocal selections by Mrs. Harry Cashman, who was accompanied by Mrs. Warren Reckmeyer, organist, and decorations included altar bouquets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums and blue and white satin pew-bows.

Given in marriage by her brother, Richard Messer, the bride was attired in a gown of white Alencon lace designed with a jeweled neckline, tapered sleeves and a floor-length skirt of lace tiers. Her bridal veil of silk illusion fell from a headpiece of pearl-trimmed petals, and her bouquet combined white roses and blue-tipped carnations.

Blue satin and brocade fashioned the street-length dress worn by the maid of honor, Miss Anna Marie Cronk, who carried a single long-stemmed white rose, and the attendants, Mrs. Walter Reynolds and Miss Sharon Stouffer, wore blue brocade frocks. Their flowers were long-stemmed pink roses, and a bouquet of white daisies was carried by the flower girl, Miss Jill Utley, who wore a dress of blue satin.

White lace trimmed the two-piece navy blue costume worn by Mrs. Messer with matching accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds and white carnations.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Gary Howlett, Oregon; groomsmen were Dennis O'Hara, Oregon, and John Tice, and wedding guests from Mount Morris, Oregon, Rockford, Chicago, Lanark, Aurora, Rochelle, Polo and Forrester were ushered by Douglas, Darrell, and James Messer, Rockford. Participating as ringbearer was Steven Messer. Blue streamers and white wedding bells decorated the church fellowship room where a reception was held following the double-ring ceremony. Guests were registered by Miss Debra Deith, and a tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. Richard Messer and Mrs. Darrell Messer. Coffee and punch were poured by Mrs. Douglas Violet and Miss Cindy Mongan, and in charge of the gift table was Miss Colleen Strohecker.

Blue accessories complemented the white knit suit worn by the bride when the newlyweds left on a wedding trip to California. She is a 1967 graduate of Mount Morris High School and Mr. Bechtold graduated in 1960 from Oregon Community High School. He is an employee of Kable Printing Company in Mount Morris where they will reside.

Style Variety In Knitwear For Women

The schoolgirl, the young career woman, and the sophisticated suburbanite will find a wealth of fashion variety in updated shirts, new-looking separate skirts to wear with them, in casual knits, sweater dresses or sweater shirts.

The new sportswear look demands the advantages of man-made fibers, particularly Orlon, for knits that have comfort, shape-retention and good performance built in and Dacron in an endless variety of washable, wrinkle-resistant fabrics for the rejuvenated shirts and separates. Banlon garments also run the gamut in sportswear fashion, from kooky minidresses to tights and tops and wild at-home clothes.

Here is a list of some of the new sportswear looks:

Sweater Dresses. Kinky little knit shifts with the look of the sweater that grew into a dress.

Body Shirt. The big news in shirts is the fitted-shirt look or body shirt. Often this has a long, pointed collar, wide French cuffs or is side-closed with a fencer color.

Knit Shirt. Taking a cue from the casual comfort of the woven body shirt is the knit shirt. It has shirt collar and sleeves and button front.

Skirts. New are the kilts, dirndls and pleated wrap skirts and pants skirts (with the pants completely disguised), panel front skirts and skirts with side cluster pleats.

The Low-Down Sweater. The new sweater look is the long, long pullover, sometimes belted, sometimes not.

Divided Skirts. The pants dress and pants skirt, some with separate matching tops or tunic jumpers, are very important for fashions with an eye to action.

Crazy Color contrasts. There's much color mixing in stripes and geometrics, usually in neon brights of pimento, purple, rust, gold and electric blue.

The Hardware Story. The industrial zipper, the galosh or snapper closing, brass buttons, chain belts are not just functional but important parts of the fall style message.

Marines in for Long Winter at Con Thien

By PETER ARNETT
Associated Press Writer

CON THIEN, Vietnam (AP) — This shell-battered outpost held by U.S. Marines is becoming a symbol of the new war in the northern region of South Vietnam, a war whose pace and tactics have been determined by North Vietnamese Communists.

For U.S. Marines at Con Thien it looks like a grim fall and winter in the five northern provinces that make up Vietnam's 1st Corps. They see little militarily, geographically or climatically—to relieve the somber picture that follows what one senior American official called "a pretty unpleasant summer" in the corps area.

As inhabitants of the three red-mud hills of Con Thien, the forward-most allied stronghold in Vietnam, the Marines can be expected to hold a sour view of the situation. The primitive outpost guarding possible invasion routes into South Vietnam has become the lightning rod of the war, attracting savage bombardments from the hidden guns in the enemy sanctuary in North Vietnam across the Ben Hai River border.

The monsoon rains are beginning to drum in, clogging foxholes with mud and making helicopter flights—the only way in—hazardous.

Because it nudges North Vietnam, Con Thien is the easiest target in the country for the northern Communists. They send sappers in nightly to probe the barbed wire defenses. Snipers are active at all times. The Marines say they are not surrounded, but there is no doubt that the enemy is all around.

Senior Marines make little attempt to hide their fear that the necessity of repelling enemy thrusts at the demilitarized zone will destroy the whole concept devised to fight the Communists elsewhere in the large 1st Corps region, a concept determined in more than two years of U.S. Marine commitment to the war.

Already, Marine officers say, painstakingly acquired advantages in key corps areas have been eroded because of the need to meet Communist pressure at the DMZ.

Marines say Communist reasoning is obvious. "In the broadest sense, the enemy purpose is to draw U.S. forces away from the main thrust of the war—destruction of the Communist guerrilla infrastructure, and road and village security," a senior Marine explained.

"In this, he has succeeded. Midsummer last year we had two battalions up at the DMZ. Now we have almost a division. By having to meet the threat at the DMZ, we are draining our strength from the key population areas," the officer said.

The results of the Marine vacuum are becoming obvious. The Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division in the two northernmost provinces of Quang Tri and Thua Thien has had to deploy nine of its 12 battalions to protect a handful of pacification teams, leaving few troops for military operations.

Several provincial cities have been attacked and all are in a state of nervousness, particularly after it was learned that an enemy attack on the provincial capital of Tam Ky last month was aimed at holding the city for eight hours, rounding up all U.S. and Vietnamese officials, forcing them to appear at a drumhead court, then executing them as an example to the population.

The Tam Ky attack was beaten off, but it is an indication of how the war is going in the 1st Corps area, that for the first time in 18 months there are fears that the Communists might indeed overrun a provincial capital.

The Marine vacuum is being partly filled by the deployment of increasing numbers of U.S. Army regiments already there. Corps south of the corps headquarters of Da Nang. The three Army regiments already there may be augmented by another division, reliable sources report.

But the Army reinforcements have not been able to stop the deteriorating road security throughout the whole corps, or the continued ability of small Viet Cong groups to attack anything at will.

"Our greatest trouble is still the guerrilla who is strung out along Route 1, and in the length and breadth of the corps," one senior Marine said.

"The situation is worse now than four months ago," commented a senior U.S. civilian official in Da Nang. "There is more ebb than flow in the situation. The Viet Cong has had several psychological victories in recent months. They have shown that when they want to they can achieve militarily pretty much anything."

The need for increased forces is obvious in the 1st Corps region. The Marines say they have sufficient forces at the DMZ right now, but foresee the need for many more, particularly if Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's barrier scheme goes through, and if the Communists raise the DMZ ante.

Marine strength is matched by the Communists at the DMZ. Two Communist divisions have been identified—the 325C and 324B—plus some separate regiments and battalions.

The Communists are believed to have eight to ten battalions facing Marine positions in the DMZ area at any one time, a total of perhaps 6,000 troops.

To aid their infantry, the Marines have deployed tremendous firepower, particularly artillery and attack aircraft. Several infantry battalions keep on the move.

The DMZ is still not a solid front line as in the Korean War. "We are trying to stay fluid, to keep on the move," one officer said.

The Con Thien outpost commander, Lt. Col. Gorton Cook, 39, of Syracuse, N.Y., commented, "This could turn into something like Korea. But right now I would compare this at most to Korea's Bunker Hill, a sort of combat outpost, only we are bigger than in Korea."

Marine officers point out that the high casualty figures reported from the DMZ are taken not only at Con Thien, but also among the maneuver battalions. They also concede that for the first time in the Vietnam war, American casualties as against those suffered by the enemy may be on a 1-1 ratio.

"There is no way to determine the extent of enemy casualties," a senior Marine said. "We believe he is suffering at least as many as us, and maybe more."

Already this year, the Marines have taken about 2,500 killed and more than 20,000 wounded, many of them at the DMZ.

Another pressure point in the 1st Corps area is south of Da Nang in the Viet An Valley, where three regiments of the 2nd North Vietnamese Division are known to be deployed. It was this unit that moved against Tam Ky City.

A total of 53,000 enemy troops is believed in the whole corps, up 7,000 from last December's estimates. The allies hold a 3-1 ratio over the Communists.

Many Americans would like to see the ratio larger. "We need more forces. We have shown that the only way you can keep the Communists down in the 1st Corps is to sit on them," said a senior civilian.

"We know where the Communists are, we know their habits. We just don't have the forces to dig them out."

Estimates of increased forces needed range from one infantry division to three divisions.

One senior Marine said the number "depends on how fast you want the job done, on how much the threat increases. We could always use more men."

The 1st Corps situation has not been improved by chronic civil unrest against the Saigon government, manifest recently in public demonstrations over the Sept. 3 presidential election results.

A senior American commented, "The general disaffection of the population towards Saigon definitely helps the Viet Cong. It doesn't make our job any easier."

Adding to the mounting problems are nearly half a million refugees, nearly one out of every five of the region's population.

The ever enlarging presence of North Vietnamese troops is becoming the dominant issue in the 1st Corps, however.

"The North Vietnamese are firing shells at a rate that we didn't credit them with before," one senior American said.

"They have shown they are prepared to expend as many humans as necessary, as long as the supplies keep rolling in."

This official felt that the North Vietnamese viewed Con Thien as a sort of Dien Bien Phu, a chance to achieve in one battle the demoralization of the United States and a possible advantageous end to the war.

The Marine high command says Con Thien can withstand any enemy assault. However, when asked if he felt the enemy could take his position, outpost commander Cook replied, "That's a leading question. I don't think so."

What might be the outcome of the DMZ situation? With the monsoon season about to settle in, the Marines see a protracted stalemate.

"We can keep their heads down with our guns and our air," a senior Marine said. "But only infantry can really silence those enemy guns."

"Because of the political ramifications we can't cross the Ben Hai River with troops. You can't fully destroy an enemy threat when he hides in a sanctuary."

The Marines have no intention of abandoning Con Thien. "We can see 30 kilometers north from Con Thien, it is the commanding terrain in the area. We'll stay," commented a senior Marine.

Cook commented, "Give the Communists an inch and they'll take a mile. If we left, they'd soon have their own guns mounted up here."

In preparation for a long stay, the Con Thien garrison is digging in deeper. "Those of us who were in Korea learned how communication trenches and bunkers can save your lives. I feel my Korean experience has helped me," said Cook.

In the meantime, Sgt. Lawrence Beauford, from Abbeville, S.C. sits in his bunker with a pencil and paper. "He has the best ears in the camp. He's our incoming shells counter," Cook said.

Up to last weekend, Beauford had counted more than 3,000 incoming rounds in 16 days, and had a new notebook ready for the new week.

"Every time they fire at us they do some damage," Cook said. "But then when you put two armies nose to nose you have to expect some shooting."

Phillie Plot Part of Master Plan

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The mass murder and destruction allegedly planned here by a Peking-oriented militant Negro group was part of a "master plan of insurrection and terror" in four other cities, it was disclosed Friday.

Detective Lt. George Fencil, head of the civil disobedience squad, said in an affidavit that his informant claimed the assassination of city officials and dynamiting of buildings here "would be coordinated to occur simultaneously with attacks . . . in New York City,

Washington, D.C., Baltimore, and Richmond, Va."

Among those marked for death in the alleged plot by members of the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM) were President Johnson and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

An investigator said RAM is headed by Robert Williams of Monroe, N.C., a former official of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Three men were held in $25,000 bail each Friday for allegedly hatching another RAM plot to foment a riot, then poison up to 4,000 policemen and citizens with potassium cyanide.

At the arraignment, Assistant Dist. Atty. William Wolfe said the poison plot was "almost incredible" but it had to be taken seriously.

The RAM members, according to informant Hilton L.

Jones, 22, planned to start a riot and poison food given policemen in the riot area and also in restaurants.

Fencil said he received a 30-page statement on the assassination-dynamite plan on Sept. 26 from Herman Bailey, 23, of Anniston, Ala., who is in Holmesburg prison. Bailey has been held here since last November for extradition to Georgia where he escaped from prison.

proached about Aug. 1 and invited to become a member of RAM. Bailey said he later agreed to assassinate police commissioner Frank Rizzo and was told about the wide-ranging plan for insurrection.

The informant claimed that Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter and Mayor James Tate also were to be killed. Buildings to be blown up included city hall, the federal courthouse and the police administration building.

Bombs...

North Vietnamese troops moving along a jungle trail. Helicopter gunships quickly loaded up a strike force of U.S. Army 4th Infantry Division troops and landed them nearby.

Within minutes the Americans were locked in heavy jungle fighting. Artillery hammered the North Vietnamese positions. Tactical air strikes dumped bombs and napalm. And helicopters slammed the Communists with rockets and machine gun fire.

The North Vietnamese had been moving northeast into South Vietnam, apparently from a Cambodian sanctuary. They broke off the fight and apparently fled back across the border, leaving at least 18 bodies behind. Blood trails indicated they carried wounded, and perhaps some dead, with them.

One American was killed and two were wounded in the fight.

The spokesman said that U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs flying out of Thailand swept back and bombed the Kep MIG airbase 38 miles northeast of Hanoi. It followed up a similar raid Saturday.

Claim Date Set

Claims for presentation to the October meeting of the Lee County Board of supervisors must be filed with County Clerk John E. Stouffer by Friday. The board will meet Tuesday in the Supervisors Room at the Court house.

Dixon Youth Apprehended In Florida

A 19-year-old Dixon youth sought by authorities since July when he failed to appear in court for sentencing on a theft conviction is in custody in Sarasota County, Florida, according to Sheriff Jack E. Van Meter.

Van Meter said FBI agents in Rockford notified his office that Lyle Mull, 1622 Ninth St., wanted here for sentencing after being convicted of stealing a car from the Harrison Cadillac-Chevrolet Co., was arrested by Florida authorities Saturday.

Mull, also wanted here on a pending charge of burglary stemming from the same incident, will be returned to Lee County if he waives extradition.

If not, sheriff Van Meter said "he'll have a hearing in Florida and then we can go to pick him up, if after the hearing Florida authorities find grounds on which to allow us to extradite him."

Fighter Is Fined

One of two men arrested for disorderly conduct Saturday during a fight in front of Otto's Tap, 310 First St., was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Morey Pires after pleading guilty to the charge.

Fined was Phillip Sofolo, 32, 718 Madison Ave. The other man arrested in the same incident, Osa Miller, 33, Castleton, is scheduled for a court appearance at a later date.

"I would like to look young Henry in the eye and tell him that no one is worth 480 times more than a Ford worker," Reuther said.

The union's demands are topped by a goal of a substantial wage increase, an extra pay boost for skilled tradesmen, guaranteed annual income, higher pensions and raising Canadian plant pay to the U.S. level. The average straight time hourly pay for the industry as a whole is $3.41, plus about $1.30 hourly in various fringe benefits.

Youth Is Fined

Magistrate Morey Pires today fined Daniel J. Bell, 20, Rt. 1, $100 and costs for drinking as a minor and dismissed another charge of illegal possession of liquor in a motor vehicle.

Bell, who was arrested by Dixon Police about 1:45 a.m. while driving a car on Chicago Avenue, pleaded guilty to the charge.

Man Is Jailed

Guy E. Mullins, 42, Franklin Grove, today remains in County Jail in lieu of paying a $150 fine received in Magistrate Court after he pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated.

Mullins was arrested by deputy sheriffs Saturday while driving a car on the Nachusa blacktop.

News Briefs

FROGMORE, S.C. (AP) — Frogmore's frog has been found.

The ornamental, 18-inch concrete symbol of the coastal town had been at the home of Lt. Col. C. P. Weiland of nearby Beaufort, whose daughter found it in their driveway two weeks ago.

"I didn't know whose it was until somebody called me about the story in the paper," said Weiland.

The frog's disappearance from the post office lawn was reported in Friday's newspapers.

TOKYO (AP) — Peking radio reported today that Communist Chinese artillery units on the Fukien coast have been ordered to refrain from firing at the Nationalist Chinese offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu on Oct. 1 and Oct. 3.

It said this was to allow Nationalist Chinese soldiers on the islands to observe celebrations marking the 18th anniversary of the Chinese Communist takeover of the mainland. The anniversary is on Oct. 1.

After their massive bombardment in 1958, the Communists announced they would shell the offshore islands only on odd-numbered days and have adhered to this self-imposed restriction.

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy will visit Cambodia "soon" and she will be warmly welcomed, Chief of State Prince Norodom Sihanouk announced Friday night.

At the same time, however, he stressed there will be no diplomatic reconciliation with the United States, Thailand or Communist China until they recognize the country's present borders which are in dispute with Thailand, and stop interfering in Cambodian internal affairs.

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — The city fathers of Liverpool are thinking about setting up a special bus service for drinkers—to keep them from driving.

Britain's strict new drink-and-drive laws came into effect next week, allowing police to make random "breath checks" with a chemical measuring device.

In Liverpool, pub crawlers would be encouraged to leave their cars at home. Then at closing time the booze bus would stop by to pick them up and deliver them to their homes in and around the city.

OCEAN SHORES, Wash. (AP) — If Donald MacGready of Hillsdale, N.J. is finicky the folks at this southwest Washington sea side resort figure it'll take a long time to satisfy him.

MacGready wrote the Chamber of Commerce, asking for a half pint of beach sand for his sand collection. The chamber's Bill Marks mailed to MacGready a half pint of sand Sunday and enclosed a note that said Marks hoped "this is the right half pint." If it isn't, he added, "send it back and tell us which half pint you want."

Now Marks figures there are about 13.2 billion half pints of sand on the 21-mile long 1,000-foot-wide beach.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The elderly driver of a stubborn mule pulling a junk wagon was cited for reckless driving after tangling with a late model car Sunday.

Neither the mule nor the driver, Alfred Burton, 78, was injured.

The wagon was impounded at a wrecking service. The mule was taken to the horse barns at the Indiana State Fair grounds. Burton is to appear later this month on charges of reckless driving and no permit for collecting junk.

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (AP) — A local branch of the Transport Workers' Union ordered three graves today—for future use.

The request went in after a union member recently was given a pauper's burial due to lack of money.

Branch Secretary Sam Clark said: "We are determined to see that none of our members ever face a pauper's funeral."

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — California Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch says the majority of the members of California "terror groups" are people in their late teens or twenties.

Lynch said the high number of young people in the organizations is "a serious prospect...for the future of our nation."

He told the Anti-Defamation League in a weekend talk that he numbers the American Nazi party and the Minutemen as terrorist groups, along with the Ku Klux Klan and black nationalist groups.

NEW YORK (AP) — Some meter men have been added to the city's meter maids to help enforce curbside parking meter regulations, says Traffic Commissioner Henry Barnes.

Barnes said 14 men were added to the meter force last Monday "because under the state fair employment practices law, we cannot discriminate between people, whether they're male or female."

He appeared on the CBS radio program, "Let's Find Out."

Also, Barnes said Sunday, the meter men can work alone in areas of the city which the city's 200 meter maids consider hazardous.

to win even if votes in dispute were thrown out.

The voting began at 11:15 a.m. EDT after a day in which club-swinging riot police using tear gas smashed a student anti-government demonstration which also charged the election was rigged. Police bloodied dozens of heads in stopping the student march before it really got started.

The police charged into the group of about 200 student marchers almost before they got started. Several of them had their heads bloodied. So did two CBS-TV newsmen. A third newsmen was assaulted, but less seriously hurt.

The battle broke out shortly after the 117-member assembly began its third and final day debating the recommendation of its special election watchdog committee that the election of Thieu and Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky, who was elected vice president, be invalidated because of "many irregularities."

The assembly has until midnight tonight (noon EDT) to reach its decision.

Meanwhile, there were unconfirmed reports that a high ranking militant Buddhist leader planned to burn himself alive in a fiery protest to the election.

Reports swept the city that Thich Thai Trang, deputy chairman of the militant United Buddhist Church, planned to sacrifice his life. Several church officials refused to comment on the reports. But one of Trang's aides said he "knew nothing" about any such plans.

The reports said, however, that the monk might immolate himself in front of the U.S. Embassy as an embarrassment to the Americans, who many dissident students and Buddhists claim "rigged" the election to legalize the present military regime.

This has been a favorite tactic of the Buddhists in the past. U.S. Marine guards and security men were alerted at the embassy, it was understood, and had wet blankets near the gates in case an immolation might be attempted near the mission.

State Police Sunday charged James E. Williar, 20, 118 Spring St., Franklin Grove, with possession of liquor as a minor and drag racing.

Olds Meets President

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Col. Robin Olds, American aerial hero of the Vietnam war, was welcomed home by President Johnson today. The MIG-killing pilot said North Vietnam's air defense is "hell of a lot better" than a year ago and its fliers also are improved.

Olds, talking with reporters after the White House meeting with the President, said the United States is gaining momentum in the air war.

He spoke with the confidence of a pilot who flew 132 missions over the Communist North and shot down four MIGs. He recorded more kills than any other U.S. pilots.

Olds actually arrived back home Saturday in a rather quiet ceremony but Johnson wanted to give him a top-level welcome personally today after the Chief Executive's return from a Texas weekend.

Olds actually arrived back "happened" to MIG pilots—"they are improved."

He declined to say whether he thought Red Chinese pilots might be flying for North Vietnam, noting that opposing pilots do not "fly eyeball to eyeball."

But Olds said the United States is winning the air war because its pilots have superior training and equipment.

More than 2,000 persons turned out Sunday to mark the burying of his ashes at the place of his birth, a homestead in southeastern Galesburg.

Sandburg died July 22 at his home near Flat Rock, N.C., at age 89.

Gov. Otto Kerner, master of ceremonies, told his audience: "The (Sandburg) family has asked me to tell you that at eventide Saturday the ashes were put beneath Remembrance Rock to mingle with the soil. They remain here always in the area he loved very, very much."

The rock was named after one of Sandburg's writings and is on the homestead which is now a park.

Saturday's burial was private. But Sunday, government officials, friends of the poet and Lincoln biographer, and the curious were present.

With Sandburg's widow, Lillian, was the couple's daughter, Margaret.

Adding color to the ceremony was the choir of Galesburg High School. It sang two of Sandburg's favorites, "Shout All Over God's Heaven" and "John Brown's Body."

Mrs. Sandburg told newsmen later that her husband had requested that these songs be sung at his burial.

The thoughts of many were summed up by the speaker of the day, Dr. Paul M. Angle, a long time friend of Sandburg who worked with him in 1934 in writing the book "Mary Lincoln, Wife and Widow."

He asserted: "nothing we can say on this occasion can change the nature of the deep incisive mark Carl Sandburg put upon his age, nor will this imprint be affected, I believe, by the passage of time."

Dr. Angle said he considers Sandburg's greatest achievement, the one-volume condensation of "Abraham Lincoln, the Prairie Years and the War Years," published in 1954.

"Add to this the one-volume

"The People, Yes," his marvelous testimony to his belief in the common people, and his 'complete Poems' and I think you have the complete measure of the writer," Angle added.

He expressed his belief that Sandburg's literary reputation would rest permanently on these works.

"To emphasize," Dr. Angle said, "I need ask only a simple question: how many writers have written three great books?"

Communists Gain Seats In Elections

PARIS (AP) — Communists and less radical leftists counted wide gains today in French regional council elections after joining forces in a campaign against President Charles De Gaulle's policies at home. The Communists tripled their seats. Gaullists gained some ground, but the election Sunday showed grassroots dissatisfaction with the government's economic and social reforms, and a well-organized campaign by Communists.

Renewing their electoral alliance with France's Socialist parties, the Communists picked up 119 seats over 1961, raising their total representation in regional councils to 175. Non-Communist leftist won 667 seats, a gain of five.

The voting was the second stage of a two-phase election. In the first vote last Sunday, when an absolute majority was needed for victory, all left-wing parties fielded candidates. In the runoff, the Communists and leftists agreed on single candidates with guaranteed support from both sides.

The Communists campaigned hard and the Gaullists little. The Gaullist regime's new social security charges became the key Communist campaign target. They said it hurt the working man most.

De Gaulle's policy of detente with the Soviet Union and his recent trip to Poland were also seen as factors giving the Communists new domestic respectability. Observers noted too the Gaullists' failure to establish a locally rooted organization during their 10 years in power.

With 1,708 of 1,772 districts reporting, the Gaullists gained 57 seats in the local council and now have 219. Some of these gains were new seats created after redistricting.

The rest of the votes were divided among Independent Republicans, Gaullist parliamentary allies, with 94; centrists and moderates, who lost 23 seats and now have 393; the extreme right, 7, and nonaffiliated candidates, 153.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wielding a brush more dynamic than that of any modern action painter, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is going to do what artists have only dreamed of: Paint the sky.

Its brush will be a Nike-Tomahawk Research rocket. The paint: Barium vapor.

The hoped-for result: Huge clouds glowing green and purple in a triple layer several hundred miles long—a display that could conceivably be viewed by residents of the entire eastern United States.

The rocket carrying the barium payload is scheduled to be launched from Wallops Island, Va., at 7:18 p.m. EDT Tuesday if weather conditions permit.

The display was not designed as a crowd pleaser. Scientists will seek to measure:

—Electric fields and wind motion in the upper atmosphere by photographing and tracking the movement of ionized barium clouds; and —The degree of interference when radio signals pass through the barium.

Hatfield, Gavin Exchange Political Viet Pleasantries

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senator and a retired general lent each other presidential support on the Republican side and some California Democrats pushed toward a 1968 primary election showdown in new moves against Vietnam war policy.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., said Sunday he would support some nonhawk candidate in the Oregon presidential primary—and he gave his warmest praise to retired Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin.

Gavin, who has said he would halt the bombing of North Vietnam and negotiate for peace if he were president, named Hatfield and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York as the type of Republican he hoped to support.

Gavin said Sunday he had "no power base, no money and no organization. I have only ideas and convictions." But he didn't count himself out of the running although he said he has no plans to enter New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation 1968 presidential primary.

Hatfield pointed out in a separate panel interview that Gavin could be in the Oregon free-for-all primary without having to declare as a candidate.

The freshman senator said "I believe that Gen. Gavin, who is a very deep thinker, a man who is a military expert, a man who combines intellectualism with military expertise, is certainly a man to be listened to."

He said "realistically, the odds are against" Gavin's winning the nomination—"but it's possible."

Hatfield said he "would very much like to see Gov. Rockefeller as a candidate," and called Michigan Gov. George Romney "a possibility."

Hatfield spoke on CBS' "Face the Nation." Gavin on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

Gavin, now chairman and chief executive officer of Arthur D. Little, Inc., industrial consultants, said the only Republican frontrunner he could not vote for is former Vice President Richard M. Nixon "unless he changes his views on Vietnam."

Gavin said he is leaving Oct. 30 to visit South Vietnam to determine "the impact of the war on the South Vietnamese."

"They're being destroyed and I'm not sure we're not being destroyed also," he said.

He said based on conversations with foreign diplomats, "there's no question" that a bombing halt would bring peace talks. President Johnson offered Friday to halt the bombing if it would "lead promptly to productive discussions" aimed at peace.

The California Democratic Council's steering committee was instructed to field a slate to challenge the expected pro-Johnson slate in the June 1968 California presidential primary.

Militant Negroes won a strong voice Sunday on the committee and a broadening of the slate's goals to include the spending of billions of dollars to improve slums.

The CDC is composed of 33,000 volunteers and is not part of official Democratic machinery. No big-name party regular is on the steering committee.

The CDC platform on Vietnam calls for "an immediate cessation of the bombing of Vietnam; negotiations—including all participants—for settlement of the war so that American armed forces may be withdrawn and for international guarantees of nonintervention in Vietnam."

Two Senate critics of Johnson policy said Sunday if the bombing were halted and North Vietnam did not respond with a peace gesture, the war might flare up dramatically.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, who has opposed escalation of the war, said the possibility of intensified attacks on the North is one reason he does not now advocate a cessation of air strikes. But he said "if the President ordered a bombing pause, I would support it."

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said he recognizes that a fruitless halt could intensify pressure for all-out attack but said "a cessation of the bombing is an indispensable requirement for peace talks and I think we ought to take the risk."

He and Mansfield spoke Sunday in separate interviews.

China Celebrates 18th Birthday of Commies Regime

By CHARLES R. SMITH

HONG KONG (UPI)—The Communist Chinese regime marked its 18th anniversary with a massive rally in Peking Sunday but the festivities were marred by violence on the country's borders and new dissension and turmoil within the Communist ranks.

The rally in Peking and developments elsewhere combined to underscore the internal and external threats to Mao Tse-tung's government as it embarks today on its 19th year of rule.

In Jakarta, an Indonesian mob sacked the Chinese Embassy, severely beating nine Chinese diplomats and destroying embassy property.

At the same time Indian troops guarding the tiny Himalayan protectorate of Sikkim fought a day-long artillery and mortar battle with Chinese border troops.

Denounce Communist Friends

At the national day rally in Peking, Soviet and East European diplomats stormed off the rostrum after Chinese Defense Minister Lin Biao denounced the Kremlin's brand of communism.

The absence of several high-ranking Chinese officials from the rostrum pointed up the power struggle within the government.

The missing Chinese officials have been denounced but not eliminated by Mao's supporters. Peking Radio failed to mention them in its accounts of the rally and reports from persons in Peking said the officials were not present.

The Chinese defense minister hinted in a speech to the hundreds of thousands of Chinese at the rally that some of the leaders of the anti-Mao movement have been destroyed.

Claims Opposition Smashed

"Under the leadership of Chairman Mao and the central committee the nation's revolutionary masses have smashed the headquarters of the bourgeoisie to nothing," Lin declared.

However, Lin added, "a handful of top party persons" were still in power and opposing Mao. He urged the nation to support efforts to "overthrow" the remaining anti-Maoists.

Mao made one of his rare public appearances to attend the rally, but he did not speak.

At least three Americans were on the rostrum. They were Anna Louise Strong, an 81-year-old writer from California; Robert Williams, a former official of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Monroe, S.C.; and Williams' wife.

Miss Strong has lived in China for many years. Williams and his wife defected to China via Cuba in July 1966.

Republican Moderates Turn Doves

By WILLIAM THEIS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republican moderates think the political wind now is with the doves and against the hawks on Vietnam policy.

But Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen believes they have gone aloft on a false breeze. That is generally the conservative stand.

In any event, Sen. Thruston B. Morton's strong call for de-escalation of the Vietnam war has put the GOP on both sides of the issue for the months ahead. The Morton moderates apparently are convinced that the prospects of a groundswell for peace are worth the risks of reopening the liberal-conservative wound of 1964.

Morton, a Kentuckian and former GOP national chairman, is highly regarded by his colleagues.

Dirksen, who supports President Johnson's strong stand in Vietnam, thinks Morton and others calling for a bombing halt and parallel de-escalation moves by the United States are "over-reading" the signs of dove sentiment.

The Illinois Republican says that with almost 500,000 American troops in South Vietnam he cannot see the U.S. public favoring steps which the military commanders fear would place those forces in jeopardy.

Dirksen is campaigning for, and is virtually certain to be named chairman of the Republican Platform Committee for 1968. He will be in position to have a powerful influence on the final Vietnam stance taken by his party.

The Republicans' internal problem over Vietnam will be eased by the fact that Democrats are having similar, if not more serious Vietnam divisions of their own.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the Senate majority whip, put the latest Republican development in typically blunt terms: "I think the Republicans are working both sides of the street. They're trying to whipsaw the President on Vietnam . . . (they) want to be on both sides of the issue until the GOP convention and then they'll make up their minds."

Federal Officials Say Blanket Cuts Would Disrupt Government

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $5 billion blanket cut in nondefense spending would disrupt orderly government, say some federal officials. And they claim it would kick up a backlash at home against congressmen now demanding huge cuts in federal spending as the price for higher taxes.

Although no official list of possibilities has been prepared, it's known that the question of a forced $5 billion cut in spending has been discussed in high administration circles.

Officials say if the Republican-backed plan succeeds, it would:

—Eliminate every new contract on every major federal construction project covered in the administrative budget. This excludes the highway program which is financed separately.

—Eliminate all new projects of every type.

—Cut new loans 50 per cent below planned levels, including those to farmers and small businessmen.

—Cut grants to states and local governments by one third.

—Eliminate or drastically reduce the school lunch program.

Sources said all cuts would have to come from the roughly $20 billion in spending which the administration can control. "It would hit everybody right in the stomach," one source said.

Controllable spending excludes such items as the $72.3 billion in military spending, originally proposed in January, and the $14 billion for interest on the federal debt.

The administration promised Congress to cut $2 billion from civilian programs and hopes to salvage an unknown amount from military spending not connected with Vietnam. But no specific list of cuts has been sent to Congress. The Administration says none will be until Congress completes action on all appropriation bills.

One key official said any cuts in military spending won't be based on the $72.3 billion total submitted to Congress last January, but on the $76.3 billion revised figure outlined by Johnson in August when he requested a 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes.

The debate over higher taxes and spending cuts reached one climax last week when Republicans failed in a bid to fix a $131.5 billion ceiling on administrative budget spending for the current fiscal year. Johnson's revised estimate in this category is $136.5 billion, not including up to $4 billion more for Vietnam.

But Republicans, aided by 34 conservative Democrats, sent back to a House committee a resolution to authorize stopgap financing through October for government agencies whose appropriations bills have not yet been passed. A new resolution extending emergency financing for 10 days is scheduled to be considered by the House Tuesday, but in the meantime the affected agencies are technically bankrupt. The only unaffected departments are Treasury, Defense, Post Office and Interior which already have their appropriations.

The spending ceiling proposed by the GOP would specifically exempt any money beyond $72.3 billion for the military which the President felt was necessary. Thus the cuts would be forced from civilian programs.

LBJ Must Cut More $$$: Mills

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson's call for speedy action on his proposed 10 per cent income tax increase is likely to go unheeded in Congress unless he cuts spending by more than the $2 billion he has offered.

That was the word today from Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, the most influential tax-writer in Congress.

Johnson warned during a news conference at his Texas ranch Saturday that the longer the lawmakers delay in granting his request for a tax increase the closer the nation moves toward "burdensome and dangerous inflation."

"This is a responsibility of Congress," the President said. "We think that the small request we have made of just 1 per cent of the income of the average persons is very necessary if we are to avoid the evil effects of a more burdensome tax, a weakening of the dollar, increased interest rates—high and ruinous interest rates—with a big blow to our homebuilding program."

But Mills, in a copyrighted interview in U.S. News & World Report said, "There is not going to be a tax bill passed by this Congress so long as there is a prospect for a rate of spending totaling well above $140 billion. It's just not going to be done."

"The White House is most anxious to get a tax increase. They have assured us that they will cut expenditures. The problem is that we believe the cuts should be much more substantial than the $2 billion they are talking about."

"I am sure they will have to agree to larger cuts before we will even consider reporting a bill out of our committee. If we ask taxpayers to pull in their belts to the extent of, say, $5 billion, the amount of additional revenue involved in fiscal 1968, then I think those taxpayers have a right to demand that the federal government pull in its belt to the same extent," Mills said.

Boston Will Meet St. Louis in Series

Tigers Bow Out, Lose to Angels

BOSTON (UPI)—The ram-bunctious Red Sox, a fuzzy-faced collection of kids every-one picked for ninth place, shook off their champagne hangovers today, reluctantly climbed off Cloud 9, and named hard-throwing Jose Santiago to start Wednesday's World Series opener against the St. Louis Cardinals.

The youthful, exciting and improbable charges of rookie Manager Dick Williams captured Boston's first pennant in 21 years Sunday to climax a season that will certainly rank as the most dramatic in American League history. Even on the final day, the outcome was in doubt.

The Chicago White Sox were eliminated first Friday night, the Red Sox personally polished off the Minnesota Twins Sunday afternoon, the final day of the regular season. Some three hours later, the Detroit Tigers were finally eliminated and the Red Sox officially had the 1967 pennant.

Celebration Starts
The pennant celebration went into high gear precisely at 4:34 p.m. EDT when Rico Petrocelli grabbed Rich Rollins' easy pop fly for the final out in a 5-3 victory and ignited a wild celebration that spread swiftly from the ballpark onto the city's streets.

But it wasn't until more than three hours later that Boston's pennant victory became official. That's when radio flashed the final score, California Angels 8, Detroit Tigers 5, and that's when the wild victory celebration reached its crescendo.

Church bells clanged over the thunder of automobile horns. Apartment house windows suddenly opened as neighbors joyously shouted to neighbors they had shunned on the streets for years.

It was 7:45 p.m. local time when the game at Detroit ended and Bill Rigney's Angels killed off any possibility of a playoff by beating the Tigers.

All Join In
Most of the Red Sox, including winning pitcher Jim Lonborg, batting star Carl Yastrzemski, catalyst Manager Williams, veteran executive Dick O'Connell, and multi-millionaire club owner Thomas Austin Yawkey were part of the jubilant celebration.

For Yawkey, 64, it was a stunning piece of success after he had fruitlessly poured millions of dollars into his baseball franchise and gone through nine different managers since the Red Sox last won a flag in 1918.

Champagne was poured with a lavish hand. Streams of pressurized shaving soap spattered executive player, coach, writer and broadcaster alike.

Yastrzemski was the focal point of the cheers and the horseplay and he earned it. He completed what Williams classified as "the most fantastic season a player has ever had."

Yastrzemski wound up with the American League batting championship at .326 after going a perfect 4-for-4 in the clincher and getting seven hits in the final two victories over the Twins.

Sensational Finish
"The year of Yastrzemski," local writers proclaimed, as Boston's sensational left field successor to Hall of Famer Ted Williams also finished with the runs batted in title driving in 121, and 44 homers, which broke the club record for a lefthander. Harmon Killebrew of the Twins tied Yaz for the homer crown but trailed by eight in the RBI race.

It was the third of Yastrzemski's four hits Sunday that ruined the Twins. Minnesota starter Dean Chance was working on a four-hit shutout and the Twins were leading, 2-0 on a pair of unearned runs when Boston rallied for five runs in the sixth.

Lonborg, who went the distance for his 22nd victory, led off the inning and when he caught Cesar Tovar playing deep at third, he surprised him with a bunt single down the line. Jerry Adair cracked a single to the right of second base and Dalton Jones, who first faked a bunt, drove a single to left to load the bases.

The stalling room Fenway crowd of 35,770 went berserk as Yastrzemski moved into the batter's box. And he belted a single to center that produced the tying runs.

The rally wasn't over. Ken Harrelson bounced to shortstop and Jones easily beat the throw home to break the tie and knock out Chance in favor of reliever Al Worthington.

Worthington's first pitch was wild, dipping away from catcher Jerry Zimmerman to move the runners to second and third. When he threw another wild pitch with George Scott at the plate, Yastrzemski scored what proved to be the winning run. Then Killebrew booted Reg Smith's bouncer with two out and pinch runner Jose Tartabull scored the fifth and final run.

Unitas Leads Colts Past Forty Niners

By JOE GERGEN
UPI Sports Writer

Johnny Unitas extracted one more ace from his ailing tennis elbow but he may yet meet his match in the Los Angeles Rams.

Unitas, recapturing the form which once made him the finest quarterback in pro football, dazzled the previously undefeated San Francisco Forty Niners with his aerial wizardry Sunday and directed the Baltimore Colts to a shockingly easy 41-7 victory.

The triumph was Baltimore's third straight but only left the Colts in a tie with the rugged Rams for first place in the Coastal Division of the National Football League. The Rams ran roughshod over the formidable Dallas Cowboys 35-13 to boost their record to an identical 3-0.

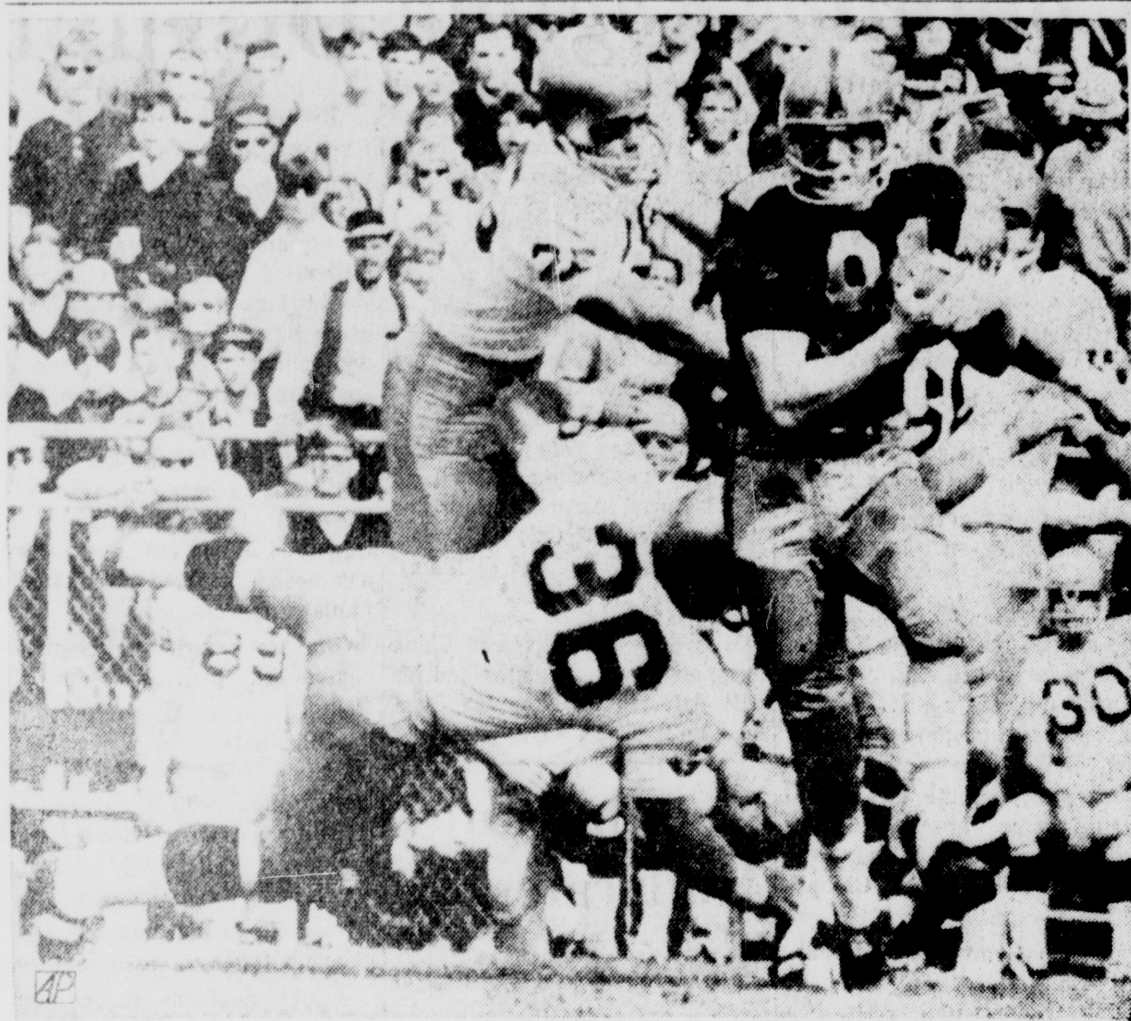

Baltimore and Los Angeles are the only all-winning clubs in the NFL after three weeks of the season and clash in Baltimore on Oct. 15.

Unitas threw for 353 yards and two touchdowns before leaving the game with 7-41 remaining. His understudy, Jim Ward, then completed the carnage by firing a TD pass.

Two TD Passes
Unitas passed 19 yards to Tom Matte for a first-period touchdown and 33 yards to rookie flash Ray Perkins for a second-quarter score.

The Rams, whose defensive demons have been dubbed "Allen's Assassins," wrought havoc with Dallas' fine-tuned offense, breaking open the game by setting up two third-period touchdowns within 82 seconds. Leading 7-6 at halftime, Los Angeles turned a fumble recovery into a touchdown. Then a little more than a minute later, Eddie Meador intercepted a Don Meredith pass, and ran it back 39 yards for an insurance TD. Meador made two interceptions in the game.

In other games, Green Bay remained unbeaten by crushing Atlanta 23-0. St. Louis stunned Detroit 38-28. Philadelphia outlasted Pittsburgh 34-24. Washington overcame New York 38-24. Cleveland clobbered New Orleans 42-7, and Chicago stymied Minnesota 17-7.

Purdue Stuns Notre Dame
Jim Beirne (81) of Purdue gathers in a pass from Mike Phipps of Purdue for a 40-yard gain in first quarter of game with Notre Dame at Lafayette, Ind. Bob Olson (36) and Bob Kuechenberg (75) of Notre Dame fail to break it up. Purdue upset Notre Dame, 28-21.

Purdue Boilermakers Upset Fighting Irish

CHICAGO (UPI) — Except for Purdue's upset of top-ranked Notre Dame, and lesser wins by Illinois and Indiana, it was another weekend of lumps for Big Ten football teams.

Seven Big Ten squads were beaten, including once awesome Michigan State, which was knocked off for the second week in a row.

Purdue's biggest gun in its 28-21 victory was sophomore quarterback Mike Phipps, who threw two touchdown passes and was tough in the clutch.

"We couldn't stop them on their third and fourth down clutch plays," said Notre Dame coach Ara Parseghian Sunday. "We moved well on offense, but we lost several players through injuries. And you can't lose eight or 10 players and not be hurt."

Hanratty Sets Records
Irish quarterback Terry Hanratty tossed 63 passes, an all-time Notre Dame record, and completed 29, also a record.

"How can you gain 485 yards and get beat?" Parseghian asked.

Purdue coach Jack Mollenkopf praised excellent staff preparation and great execution of plays for the Boilermakers' success.

"Any time you beat Notre Dame when they are No. 1, it's a big thrill," Mollenkopf said.

Indiana coach Johnny Pont lauded his defense more than the offense in the Hoosiers' 18-15 victory over Kansas. "Our defense has shown a great amount of improvement," Pont said. "They played outstanding football. The offense was good in spurts."

It was the first time in three years that the Hoosiers have won two games in a row before starting conference competition.

Illinois stampeded Pittsburgh 34-6 cutting up the Panthers for three touchdowns in the final period. Dave Jackson provided the Illini's most spectacular touchdown when he sprinted 78 yards on a punt return.

Wildcats Lose First
Missouri, which knocked off Northwestern 13-6 surprised the 'Cats with only one thing, according to Northwestern coach Alex Agase.

"They had better passing than we expected. That Gary Kombrink threw well, and they made good catches," Agase said.

Iowa, which got taken by Oregon State, 38-18, could not get anything going, coach Ray Nagel said Sunday.

"They got us on the run, and we had to play their game," he said.

"In the first half we just couldn't get anything going and the Beavers' three quick touchdowns took the starch out of the boys," Nagel said.

Gloom was the overriding emotion at other Big Ten camps today. Michigan State was beaten 21-17 by Southern California and has a shocking 0-2 record.

Other losers were Ohio State, 14-7, to Arizona; Minnesota, 7-0, to Nebraska; Wisconsin, 42-16, to Arizona State; and Michigan, 10-9, to California.

Midwest Champs

The Oregon Racing team of Garry Wood and Ron Colson captured the Top Gas eliminator class of the Alton Midwest racing championships Sunday with the Paris Brothers of Rockford placing second.

The "Stiletto" owned by Woods and Colson covered the quarter mile course in a time of 8.24 seconds and a speed of 190.66 mph.

The Paris Brothers claimed the runnerup position even though earlier in the day they established the low elapsed time and top speed of the day. Low elapsed time was 7.75 seconds and top speed was 197 mph.

Boosters Meet

The Dixon High School Booster Club will meet Tuesday evening in the Driver Training Room. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. with varsity football coach Chuck Vail as the speaker.

Oakland Raiders Down Defending AFL Champs

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

Daryle Lamonica has lost his title as the American Football League's best fireman—but now he's interested in a different kind of title for the Oakland Raiders.

Lamonica, a noted fireman with Buffalo when he could never win the starting quarterback job from Jack Kemp but came off the bench numerous times to spark the Bills to victory, was traded to Oakland in the off-season and now he's finally won the No. 1 spot.

In this new role, he's piloted the Raiders to three straight victories and suddenly vaulted them into title contention in the tough Western Division of the AFL.

Key Victory
Lamonica directed the Raiders to the key victory Sunday when they turned back the defending AFL champion Kansas City Chiefs 23-21 before a crowd of 50,268 at Oakland.

Lamonica put on quite a show as he flipped touchdown passes of two yards to Clem Daniels and 29 yards to Billy Cannon.

George Blanda, the 40-year-old castoff from Houston, also kicked three field goals of 31, 33 and 42 yards to provide the winning margin.

The victory boosted the Raiders into a tie for first place in the Western Division with San Diego at 3-0. It was the first loss for Kansas City, which is now 2-1. San Diego defeated Buffalo 37-17 to keep pace with the Raiders.

In the other two games, New York clobbered Miami 29-7 and Houston edged Denver 10-6. John Hadl fired two touchdown passes and gained 282 yards as San Diego routed Buffalo. The loss left Buffalo with a 1-3 record.

Hadl completed 18 of 21 passes including second quarter touchdown passes of 21 yards to Willie Frazier and three to Jacques MacKinnon to give San Diego a 21-3 halftime lead.

Packer's Starr Having Problems

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Quarterback Bart Starr of the Green Bay Packers, the National Football League's Most Valuable Player a year ago, was its major mystery today after a third successive Sunday of frustration.

Starr, 33, the key to a Packer offense geared toward a third straight NFL title, gave way to understudy Zeke Bratkowski Sunday and watched from the sidelines as Bratkowski passed the unbeaten but tied Packers to a 23-0 victory over the winless Atlanta Falcons.

Coach Vince Lombardi, who blamed a slump for the nine interceptions thrown by Starr in two previous games, said he removed Starr with the score 0-0 in the first period because of a "strained muscle in his throwing arm."

"How should I know?" snapped Lombardi when asked whether Starr would be ready to play next Sunday against the Detroit Lions. "He could be ready now. He could be ready next week."

Starr, who completed two of six passes for 14 yards, left the game after being hit hard on a safety blitz executed by the Falcons' Bob Riddle. Cheers greeted Bratkowski's entrance.

Starr suffered a rib injury during the exhibition season. He has been wearing tape around his wrist, at the base of his thumb, and around his rib cage. But Lombardi until Sunday insisted that nothing was wrong with Starr physically.

Starr has yet to throw his first 1967 touchdown pass. Although maintaining a solid .542 completion percentage, he has been thrown for a total of 94 yards while attempting to pass.

"There are 39 guys in this with him," said Willie Davis, the Packers' defensive captain. "If Bart Starr's having trouble, each of us is sharing in that trouble simply because of the kind of individual Starr is."

Davis predicted Starr would soon pull out of it. "He's got too much ability to stay down. A guy doesn't deteriorate that quickly in this league."

Augustana Loses To Wesleyan 17-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Illinois Wesleyan succeeded in launching the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin football race with a stunning upset Saturday and the Titans face another major test this week.

Wesleyan, scoring a pair of touchdowns in the final quarter, whipped highly favored Augustana, the defending champion, 17-3.

The Titans Saturday will invade Kenosha and take on Carthage, the second choice in the league, which opened its conference campaign with a 28-0 triumph over North Central.

North Park, undefeated in three games, opened the CCIW with a 12-0 victory over winless Millikin which has yet to score this year.

Wheaton and Elmhurst, a pair of conference members whose 1967 games will not count in the race, also victorious Saturday. Wheaton defeated Hope 12-0 and Elmhurst recorded its first victory with a 20-15 decision over Carroll.

In addition to the Wesleyan-Carthage game Saturday, Carroll will be at North Park and North Central at Millikin. Augustana steps out of CCIW action and takes on Ohio Wesleyan.

The Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference race opens this week with Eastern Illinois taking a shot at defending champion Central Michigan. Both teams will be coming off defeats. Eastern suffered its third straight loss by dropping a 28-12 decision to Eastern Michigan and Central Michigan was knocked off, 21-15, by Northern Michigan.

Undefeated Illinois State topped Illinois at Chicago 16-14 and faces Central Missouri this week while Western Illinois, a 21-13 loser to Bradley, journeys to St. Norbert.

In other games over the weekend, Northern Illinois swamped Indiana State 34-0. Southern Illinois dropped a 19-10 decision to Lincoln, Mo. Principia downed Northwestern, Wis., 34-12. Kalamazoo edged Lake Forest 9-6. St. Procopius blanked Eureka 20-0 and Illinois College and Rose Poly played to a 7-7 tie.

Cubs Finish 3rd White Sox 4th

By United Press International

Chicago baseball fans have nothing to be ashamed of, nothing at all.

In fact, they have a right to be proud.

The White Sox and the Cubs, the twosome no one seemed to see during the springtime speculating, blossomed big and bright when it got down to what really counted.

They finished fourth and third respectively, in the American and National leagues, but that does not begin to tell the story. What did they do? All they did was shake the baseball world from its foundation.

They sent sports writers into delirium trying to explain their outlandish behavior. They turned sweet, old ladies into man-eating monsters who cursed and waved high heels at the men in blue and who jostled opposing players.

Driven by magnificent managers Eddie Stanky and Leo Durocher, they both made it to the top for awhile, and they both fought valiantly to the end.

In the very end, they met defeat—the Sox lost to Washington, 4-3, Sunday, and the Cubs lost to Cincinnati, 10-3—but that did not matter, for they had already done what no one thought they could do.

The White Sox won 89 and lost 73 for a .549 percentage, 3 games behind league champion Boston. The Cubs, who wound up in the first division for the first time in 23 years, won 87 and lost 74 for a .540 percentage, 14 games behind league champion St. Louis.

The sign in Comiskey Park Sunday said: "We Will Try Harder in 1968."

For the Cubs as well as the Sox, that does not seem possible.

Dark Named

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Alvin Dark was named manager of the Cleveland Indians today, replacing Joe Adcock.

General Manager Gabe Paul announced the appointment at a news conference. When the 45-year-old Dark became available after being released in Kansas City a few weeks ago, Paul said it offered an opportunity he "couldn't afford to overlook."

BoSox Give Williams New Pact

BOSTON (UPI)—Dick Williams, who wasn't the least bit worried about it all, has something else coming to him. It's a brand new two-year contract with a healthy boost to bring his salary to over $40,000, according to the grapevine during the height of the Boston Red Sox pennant celebration Sunday night.

The 38-year-old rookie manager of the Red Sox, who received an estimated $30,000 this year, didn't even care to discuss his 1968 contract, what with all the champagne drinking—and pouring—going on, but team owner Tom Yawkey didn't mind.

"We haven't talked about it, but there won't be any problem about that when the time comes," he said. Anyone who knows Tom Yawkey knows that means a raise—a good one, at that.

Giant Step
The 64-year-old Boston owner was among the first to congratulate Williams after the Angels defeated the Tigers in Detroit to make it official: the Red Sox, ninth a year ago, were American League champions for the first time since 1918.

Williams, Yawkey and Vice President Dick O'Connell huddled together for the multitude of photographers. Williams, who had tossed a plastic garbage can against the wall and overturned two chairs when the Angels won, looked dazed and in a state of shock.

Reflecting on the pennant, Williams said twice, "This is yours" to Yawkey. "I just thank God I had the opportunity to be here. Oh, this is beautiful. Beautiful."

It was an island of emotion in a sea of pandemonium. Shaving cream and champagne were the uniform of the day. Every player and coach was—deliriously, happily—soaked and coated.

Foamy Finale
When the crewcut manager shook lanky Jim Lonborg's hand and thanked him for the 5-3 win a couple of hours earlier, in addition to his part in the storybook season, outfielder Jose Tartabull and pitcher Jose Santiago cascaded shaving cream into Williams' hair. They smeared it over his face but he hardly noticed.

"We're the greatest," Santiago bellowed. "We're the greatest."

Elston Howard, who had been through nine pennant celebrations with the New York Yankees, scrambled atop an equipment trunk and called for a cheer "for the most valuable player in the league this year—Carl Yastrzemski." Yastrzemski, who had finished off his best year ever with a 4-for-4 performance that assured him the triple crown, got his cheer with plenty of noise to spare.

Williams summed it up for everyone when he said "I just want to thank Mr. Rigney and his Angels for stopping that Detroit juggernaut. We oughta vote him a share!"

Steward News

STEWART — Wilbert Felgenhauer has returned to his home following a two weeks train trip to the northwest.

Points of interest were visited in Seattle; he was a guest of The Rev. Charles Symmank, former pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Rochelle, and his family at Snohomish, Wash. Felgenhauer was guest organist at the Zion Lutheran Church of which The Rev. Mr. Symmank is present pastor.

Felgenhauer toured the Bremerton Navy Base and was aboard the battleship, Missouri, in which the Japanese Peace Treaty was signed.

He traveled by boat to British Columbia to visit with friends who are employed in a logging camp and also did some mountain climbing.

Mr. and Mrs. August Montag, Bellewood, and Mrs. John Phipps were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Phipps, Rochelle.

Mrs. John Phipps entertained members of her birthday club at her home Wednesday evening in honor of Mrs. Frank Hewitt.

Others present were Mrs. Anton Arne, Mrs. M. M. Fell, Mrs. Burnie Chambers, Ardelle Chambers, Mrs. A. R. Richardson, and a guest Mrs. Elsie Voogd.

The group will meet again in October when Mrs. Edward Leusby and Mrs. M. M. Fell have birthdays. Hostesses then will be Mrs. Anton Arne and Mrs. Edward Leusby.

Ruth Ann Jordal attended a birthday party for her cousin, Shirley Hopwood, 7, at the home of the honoree's parents, the Richard Hopwoods, Rochelle, Sept. 21.

Other guests included Sally and Franny Male, Becky Tilton, Janice Binz, Diane Davis and Marcia Sturm.

Gay Prewett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Prewett, will attend the meeting of the Rochelle Evening Woman's Club at the home of Mrs. Del Mulby Monday to tell about the two-weeks she spent at Allerton Park Art Workshop this past summer.

The Mount Morris night unit of Home Extension will hold its meeting on Wednesday, at the home of Edna Asp with Shirley Bethke as hostess. The major lesson will be the selection and use of small appliances and will be given by Esther Dona and Elaine Pieper. Minor lesson will be to fill out program books.

Any women of the community who would be interested in playing volleyball are invited to come to the community gymnasium Monday at 7:30 p.m. Skill and ability are not required, just the desire for an evening of fun.
